FRENCH CABINET GOES ON THE ROCKS

THE POLICY OF CAILLAUX TOO MUCH WEIGHT FOR BODY

The French Ministers Program and His Resistance To a Capital Levy Are Prime Reasons—Facing Great Crisis—Government Lacks Reliable Majority—May Ask Painleve To Pick a New Ministry.

M. Painleve's ministry, which was constituted April 16 last, and took up the administration of France's complicated affairs to succeed the Herriot cabinet, ended its career Tuesday, when the premier submitted his resignation and that of his cabinet to President Doumergue.

The fall of the ministry was due to M. Caillaux's financial policy, his resistance to a capital levy, to which M. Painleve rallied after the radical convention at Nice had adopted a resolution favoring it. One of the most difficult political crises in its history now faces the French republic.

President Doumergue has the task of picking a man to form a new government without a reliable majority to support him.

The president will see M. Cazalas, president of the radical group, after which it is expected he will summon the man chosen to form the new government. The general impression Tuesday night is that it will be M. Painleve.

The premier, in the new combination, will likely have the collaboration or active support of M. Herriot and M. Briand probably will be asked to remain as minister of foreign affairs.

The meetings held by the different political groups of the chamber Tuesday afternoon developed a wide divergence of views as to the solution of the crisis and showing that the new cabinet, however constituted, will have to maneuver delicately to find a majority.

Divers opinions were expressed in Washington as to the probable effect of the fall of the French cabinet on negotiations for funding the French war debt.

At the White House officials said that President Coolidge saw little indication that the discussions would be retarded. He is under the impression that the cabinet crisis in Paris arose from domestic issues and that the effect on such foreign policies as debt funding will be remote.

In other administration quarters familiar with the debt question, however, it was predicted that conversations on that subject would encounter a temporary delay at least.

It is suggested that before taking up the threads of the debt negotiations the new cabinet probably would take time to entrench itself on domestic questions.

ATTENDED WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Carle and Mrs. J. F. English attended the Dadds-Thomas wedding which occurred at St. Mary's Catholic church, Lancaster, Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. The groom is a nephew of Mrs. English.

Sometimes we feel strongly like endorsing Rear Admiral Phelps when he says that he "getting tired of hearing Europeans blame the United States for every bit of trouble that occurs thruout the world." And so, we think are many others. — Charleston (W. Va.) Daily Mail.

GOOD RECORDS OF MUHLENBURG TOWNSHIP BOYS

The Boys' Pig club of Muhlenburg made a fine showing at the Pumpkin Show.

Eleven of the fourteen boys who started the work finished. The boys should be congratulated. They won one second and one fifth prize which includes a free trip to Pittsburgh. The scoring of the boys in the Breeding class was as follows:

John Fullen, 95.7 per cent; Harry Carpenter, 92.9; Arthur Beatty, 89.5; Emerson Beatty, 85.6; Johnnie Brigner, 83.9.

In the market class the scores were: Scott Carpenter Jr., 87.5 per cent; John Pherson, 85.9; Wayne Stewart, 84.6; William Pherson, 81.2; Herman Clifton, 77.8; Harold Clifton, 69.

The boys had for their leader, Pearl E. Smith and owe their success to him for the interest he had in the club during the summer in helping them get ready for the show at the close of the season.

Prague's John Huss Celebration That Vexed Vatican

Part of the immense crowd gathered for the John Huss celebration which took place in Prague to commemorate the signing of the treaty of St. Germain. It was this celebration which caused the present strained relations between the Vatican and the Czechoslovak government.

EMBARGO PUT ON FREIGHT FOR FLORIDA

Shortage of Labor and Inability to Unload Cars is Given as Cause.

Florida railroads, crippled by the mountain of freight that followed in the wake of the land boom Tuesday declared an embargo on virtually all perishable goods.

With the exception of foodstuffs and livestock, the Seaboard Airline company, has raised the bars against carload lots of all classes shipped to Florida destinations.

The Atlantic Coast Line railroad is refusing freight for the west coast. Both lines, with the Southern railway following their example, have banned all shipments for points on the connecting Florida East Coast railway, allowing passage only to petroleum and its products.

Shortage of labor and the inability of consignees to unload the ever increasing strings of cars are cited by the railroads as the reasons for the ban.

Job seekers who rushed to Florida with the beginning of the boom have been carried away by the prospects of easy profits, it was said and laborers are at premium in the crush of real estate speculators.

The embargo set up temporarily by the Seaboard Air Line includes carload freight of all classes bound for Florida on its lines with the exception of foodstuffs and livestock.

The Atlantic Coast Line is similarly refusing shipments for west coast cities, including Sarasota, St. Petersburg, Palmetto, Bradentown and Clearwater.

Both of the above roads and the Southern railway are refusing carload lots and less than carload freight to the east coast of Florida, where the ban is more complete than on the west coast.

The congestion first became marked early in September and has since spread to nearly all of the principal points of Florida.

PUMPKIN SHOW AMUSEMENTS.

The receipts of the riding devices during the Pumpkin Show made by the amusement director, T. D. Krinn, are as follows: Ehling, $888.19; Merry Mix-up, $95; shows $186.52; 21,465 people paid admissions to the shows and rides.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires By Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Youngstown, — The Northwestern conference of the Ohio State Federation of Women's clubs opened today and will continue until Thursday.

Mrs. Margaret Allman, of Canton, district president, called the conclave to order. State President Mrs. Charles R. Fox, of Cincinnati, presided.

Toledo, — Rev. Grant W. Speer, pastor of the Central Christian church here, today, sued The Cleveland News for $100,000, charging "malicious libel."

Akron, — The resignation of County Commissioner Fred F. Smith, whom fellow commissioners charged with intoxication, was in the hands of the county authorities today.

Warren, — Frank Nigra, of Warren, was held in jail today pending sentence on charges of manslaughter in connection with the death of his son, Tony, who was shot and killed last spring.

Nigra was found guilty late Monday night. He is subject to a maximum sentence of twenty years.

Columbus, — Funeral arrangements were announced Tuesday for the Rev. Postle E. White, 50, Newark, superintendent of the Zanesville district of the Ohio conference of the Methodist church, who died late Monday. Rev. Dr. White died from poisoning which developed from an infected tooth.

Columbus, — The partisan tempest that developed over the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted in referendum a week from today subsided temporarily while proponents and opponents of the measure held party conferences.

Akron —The present shortage of raw rubber will continue until 1931, Dr. N. H. Whitford, crude rubber expert, declared in a special report to the Rubber association of America, made public Tuesday.

JUSTICE'S COURT.

Justice Strawser got busy during the Pumpkin Show and appointed a special constable, a Mr. Dixon and the latter found two men, John Johnson and Charles Young, drunk, both claiming Columbus as their home. The justice fined them $100 apiece and in default they were sent to jail to board out the fine and costs.

LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Frank Cox Died at Her Home at Laurelville of Cancer of the Heart.

Mrs. Maysie Cox, wife of Frank Cox, passed away at her home in Laurelville at 9:30 o'clock Monday, October 26. She had been a sufferer for more than year of cancer of the breast.

She was aged about 45 years and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin White, of Hocking county.

She leaves a devoted husband and two children, a son and a daughter. Up until the time of her marriage, she was a teacher in the public schools and had the reputation of being one of the best teachers in Hocking county.

REINDEER HER MEAT

Unge Lou, Eskimo girl whose home is in the suburbs of Nome, Alaska, while traveling east to enter college was much surprised, on entering the railway dining car, to find herself served with reindeer meat, her favorite food. Her father, known as the reindeer baron of the Arctic circle, has arranged to send the meat to her regularly by parcel post.

WILLIAM FAUSNAUGH DEAD

William Fausnaugh, a resident of Five Points, died at his home last Monday evening aged 70 years. His death was due to pneumonia.

The deceased is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter. They are George Fausnaugh, at home; Trumper Fausnaugh, of Columbus, and Mrs. Clarence Turlinger, of Five Points.

The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon. Interment at Five Points.

E. H. Rausenberger went to Greenfield Tuesday where he will be a guest of the Highland Beagle club.

MONDAY CLUB MUSIC NIGHT DELIGHTFUL

General Subject Was "Opera" and Tannhauser Was the Special Study.

The first session for the year of the music division of the Monday club was held Monday night, and that the members are especially fond of the musical evenings was demonstrated by the large number in attendance and also by the evident pleasure with which the program was received. Mrs. C. G. Stewart, chairman of the music division, was in the charge of the meeting.

The general subject was Opera, Tannhauser, being the special subject of the evening's lesson. Miss Florence opened the study with a well written paper in which she depicted the life of the composer, Wagner, giving a most vivid picture of his early privations and struggles and his ultimate success—a success so complete as to cause him to be known as the "one true musical genius of his age."

Miss Florence also pleasantly sketched the story of Wagner's great opera, Tannhauser, after which Mrs. Stewart played a few bars from the various motifs of the composition, including the "Venusburg Motif," the "Song of Love" and the "Siren's Song." At the conclusion of each motif Miss Florence explained its uniform significance and its connection with the entire opera.

Miss Clarke then played the "Pilgrim's Chorus," her faultless rendition bringing out fully the almost weird beauty of the selection.

Next, the "Fest March" which occurs in the third act, was played by Mrs. Wilder and Mrs. Stewart. Listening to their spirited playing one well could imagine the assembling of the nobles and ladies which the music represented.

An aria, "Elizabeth's Prayer" was then sung in German by Mrs. Bennett, accompanied by Miss Clarke. The club is to be congratulated that it has in its membership one who is able by her singing to carry her hearers' minds instinctively to Madame Schumann-Heinke.

The next number on the program was to have been a violin selection, "Oh, Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star" played by Miss Groce. Miss Groce not being present Mrs. Bennett sang a portion of the ode, also in the original.

The closing number of the program the "Ode to the Virgin" was sung by a chorus under the leadership of Mrs. Will. The chorus was composed of Mrs. Will, Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. Eagleston, Mrs. May, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Schwarz, Mrs. Moffitt, Mrs. Johnson and Misses Florence, Clark, Marion, Olds, Rowe, Grimes and Reynolds. To all who are familiar with the singing ability of these ladies it goes without saying that the rendering of this beautiful music won added laurels for each participant. This chorus brought to a close a very delightful musical evening.

PICKAWAY TOWNSHIP P. T. A.

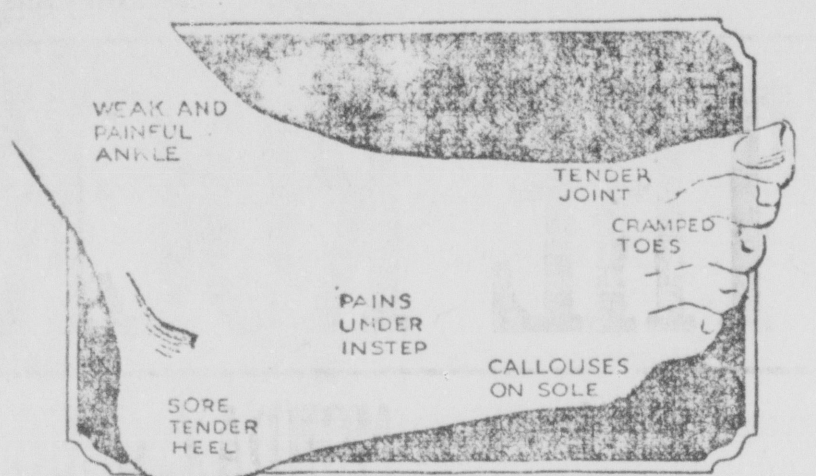

The second meeting of the school year of the Parent Teacher association of the Pickaway township school will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the school auditorium.

There will be a good program with Miss Nettie Rader as chairman. Mrs. Marvin Dresbach will lead in the devotionals and Mrs. Ray Phillips will have charge of the music.

Mr. Cecil Acton representing the "Wabash Lyceum Bureau" will meet with the association at this time. The friends and patrons of the school are urged to be present.

Foot Troubles?

FREE DEMONSTRATION MONDAY, NOV. 2nd.

Seven persons out of every ten have some form of foot trouble. It may be weak or broken down arches, weak ankles, corns, callouses or bunions or probably a case of tired, aching, painful feet. Regardless of what may be the nature of your suffering, you will find quick and permanent relief, this week, at our Foot Comfort Department.

Foot Comfort Expert to Serve You

For the benefit of all foot sufferers, this store has arranged with The Scholl Mfg. Co., for the services of one of Dr. Scholl's most skilled demonstrators, who will be at our store to give free foot comfort demonstrations on the above date. Every foot sufferer should take advantage of this exceptional opportunity.

Free Podo-graph Picture Made of Your Feet
In a few seconds' time, without removing the hose, he can make a photographic print of your foot that positively shows if you do have foot troubles and to what stage the trouble has progressed. This service is absolutely free and places you under no obligation whatever.

FREE SAMPLES

Do you want to know how to stop corns hurting instantly? Come in and get a sample of Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads. They remove the cause of corns—friction and pressure. Thin, antiseptic, healing.

Bring your foot troubles to this store during this demonstration and learn the true meaning of foot comfort.

MACK'S SHOE SHOP

REV. DR. WHITE DIES UNEXPECTEDLY HERE

Columbus, Oct. 27.—An infected tooth which spread its poison throughout his system caused the death of Rev. Postle E. White of Newark yesterday noon in White Cross Hospital, where he had gone Sunday night for X-ray examination and treatment. Rev. Dr. White was district superintendent of the Zanesville district of the Ohio Conference of the M. E. church.

The examination disclosed so serious a condition that an operation was considered necessary, but death came while preparations were being made to operate.

The widow, Emma Brown-White; a daughter, Dorothy E., a junior at Ohio Wesleyan, and a son, Charles E., aged 5; two nephews, Rev. W. P. Castro of Wayne Ave. M. E. Church, Cincinnati, and Floyd Castro of Birmingham, Ala., survive.

Rev. Dr. White was born June 28, 1875, at Syracuse, O., and Nov. 18, 1899, was married. There were four children, two of whom, Lucille and Florence, are dead.

Funeral services will be held in Glenwood M. E. Church. Burial will be in Green Lawn cemetery. Details of funeral arrangements have not been made, pending word from Bishop Theodore S. Henderson.

WOMAN'S DAY

Fittingly Celebrated Sunday at United Brethren Church.

The Woman's Missionary Society, the Otterbein Guild and the Junior C. E. of the United Brethren church observed Woman's Day Sunday morning with a special program. It consisted, in part, of an exercise, "The Last Command," by several members of the Junior C. E., the 96th Psalm by May Willis, also an able address, "Establishment and Expansion," by the pastor, Rev. S. W. Hiles. The offering this year is to be divided between two stations, Ponce, Porto Rico, and Circle, Montana. The needs of these stations were presented by Mrs. J. E. Millirons and Mrs. J. W. Trimmer.

An appeal to stop the leak in the missionary work that has been brought about through so many women failing to renew their subscriptions to the Woman's Evangel was made by Mrs. J. R. Kirkpatrick. The offering will not be sent in to the branch treasurer for at least two weeks, thus giving time for all who wish to contribute to this worthy cause to do so.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that meas-material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture.

It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect work-

Franking Privileges

The privilege of sending and receiving mail free of postage was once enjoyed by the President of the United States, vice president, heads of departments, senators and representatives and other officials of the government during their official terms. For a time all former presidents also had this right, but by an act of 1873 the privilege was abolished. By later acts it was conferred on all officers of the government in the case of official correspondence. In 1895 members of congress were allowed this privilege in their official correspondence.

$16,493,966 GO TO VETS
UNDER REED-JOHNSON BILLReport by Rehabilitation Committee of Legion Tells of Work of Year.

Indianapolis.—Almost 40,000 disabled World war veterans and families of veterans received more than $16,000,000 under the Reed-Johnson rehabilitation bill and its amendments during the last year.

The total amount awarded under the measure was $16,493,966, or an average benefit of $418 per case, according to James F. Barton, national adjutant, the American Legion.

Results of this legislation, passed in 1924 and 1925, with Legion support, are set forth in a report made by Watson B. Miller, chairman of the Legion's national rehabilitation committee. The report will be submitted to the national convention of the Legion at Omaha from October 5 to 9.

Full benefits of the Reed-Johnson bill have not been felt in the year since its passage, Mr. Johnson declares. A review of all old cases disallowed under previous laws was taken up at the Legion's suggestion, but this is only about half finished.

There were between 400,000 and 500,000 of these cases. The review is progressing at the rate of 700 cases a day.

Experience has shown, Mr. Miller's report says, that the veteran or his dependents benefit in about 15 per cent of these cases by some phase of the new legislation.

More than 10,000 shell-shocked veterans have benefited in the first year of the law's operation to the extent of $4,620,501 under the extension of the period for presumptive service connection on mental diseases. Under a similar extension for tubercular veterans, 10,281 of them have received $8,493,489. Increased dependency pay for death or disability totaled for the year $938,638.

Increases in pay from $100 to $150 a month have been granted to 335 blind veterans. Some 937 helpless veterans were paid during the year $562,200 in allowances for attendants. Eighty-nine totally deaf veterans received compensation increases from $65 to $100 a month.

KEEPING WELL

LETTING SUNSHINE

INTO THE THROAT

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN

Editor of "HEALTH"

IT HAS long been known that the tuberculosis germ could not live in sunlight. That's why certain localities where sunny days were frequent got the reputation of curing tuberculosis. Then it was found that sunlight, even in mid-winter, would cure skin tuberculosis. Later Doctor Roulier, in Switzerland, noticed that children with tubercular joints whose beds in his hospital were where the sun shone on them, got well quicker than children whose beds were in the shade. So he moved them all out on a glass-enclosed porch, where the sun shone on them all day long, and then they got well. Not only that, but those who had tuberculosis of the lungs as well as tuberculosis of the joints, also got better. So he began keeping all his tuberculosis patients outdoors, regardless of the temperature. He took off all their clothes, except caps, overshoes and girdles, and exposed the whole body to the sun. His patients improved and many completely recovered, with no treatment except sunlight.

But how about tuberculosis of the throat, or as doctors call it "laryngeal tuberculosis." This is not only a common form of tuberculosis but also one of the most difficult for the physician to treat. It was for many years considered absolutely incurable.

About twenty years ago, it occurred to Dr. Josef Sargo, head of a tuberculosis sanitarium at Davos, that if sunlight could be reflected into the throat, it might have a beneficial effect. His assistant, Doctor Kunwald, tried it on fourteen patients with good results. Their apparatus was very crude.

Other doctors tried this method and improved the apparatus. Then a tuberculosis patient in Colorado Springs, Colo., developed tuberculosis of the larynx. After many experiments, working with his physician, he made two important improvements. First, he used concave mirrors instead of flat ones, by which the sunlight is concentrated; and second, he used metal mirrors instead of glass. The metal mirrors are made of a metallic alloy which does not reflect the heat rays of the sun, but only the ultra-violet or actinic rays, as they are called. So the throat is exposed to sunlight without heat, which might injure the larynx.

The patient treats himself, by throwing the sunlight into the throat every sunny day. After a few treatments the pain disappears, the ulcers begin to heal up and the disease slowly but surely disappears. About a year is necessary in most cases for a complete cure.

No wonder the old Persians worshipped the sun. We are just beginning to realize the power and value of sunshine.

Question: How Far Did
George Go?

The white man—so the story runs—was named Ferguson. He owned a string of two-room frame cottages and his tenants exclusively were colored. Very great was his chagrin when a negro man in a fit of pique cut a woman's throat in one of his houses so that she bled to death, leaving a large dark stain on the floor, because immediately the word spread among the black population that the building was haunted and thereafter nobody would rent it, even at reduced rates. For months the cottage stood empty. Then the owner had a bright idea. He went one evening and hunted up a large dark individual named George Titus, upon whom by way of beginning, he conferred a drink out of a bottle of corn spirits.

"George," said he, "these darkies tell me you know quite a lot about hants and ghosts and such things?"

"Well, sub. Mist' Ferguson," replied George modestly, "I does know a right smart 'bout sich."

"That's good," said the wily white man. "I'm rather an authority myself on such matters. Now, then, speaking as one expert to another, I want to tell you that gun-barrel shack of mine out here on Clay street, where that woman was killed, is not haunted. She died in a state of grace and her spirit rests in peace."

"But the trouble is that these colored people around this town don't know it and they've given the place a bad name. What I want to do is to prove to them that it's not haunted. And here's the way we're going to do it—you and me. I'm going to hire you to spend tonight in the room where the killing took place. Then, when you come out tomorrow morning and tell your people that nothing happened there during the night, I'll be able to rent the house again. I'm going to give you the rest of this bottle of liquor now and a fresh bottle besides. And tomorrow morning I'll hand you a ten-dollar bill. How about it?"

That slug of corn whiskey already was working. It made George valiant. Besides a white man had appealed to him for professional aid. He consented—after another lusty pull at the flask.

The crafty Ferguson took no chances. Straightaway he escorted his newly enlisted aid to the house of tragedy, provided him with a pullet on the floor and left him there in the gathering darkness. But before departing he took the precaution of barring the two windows from the outside and securely locking the front and rear doors.

Next morning bright and early he came to release his brother expert. The windows still were shuttered, the doors still fastened tight; but the house was empty. Also it was in a damaged state. At one side the thin clapboards were burst through, as though a blunt projectile traveling at great speed had struck them with terrific force from within. The shattered ends of planking stood forth encircling the jagged aperture in a sort of sunburst effect. Upon the splintered tip of one of the boards was a wisp of kinky wool. Upon a paling of the yard fence was a rag, evidently ripped from a shirt sleeve. Otherwise there were no signs of George Titus. He was utterly gone, with only that yawning orifice in the cottage wall to give a clue as to the manner of his departure.

Mr. Ferguson waited all through the summer day for the missing one to turn up. George failed to return. On the second day the white man gave the alarm. A search party was organized—men on horseback with dogs. Bloodhounds took the trail. They followed it from early morning until late that evening.

Just before dusk, in a swamp thirty miles away the lead-dog bayed exultantly. The pursuing posse, with Ferguson in the lead, spurred forward.

Here came the missing George. His face was set toward home. It was a face streaked with dust and dried sweat, torn by briars, wet, drawn, gray with fatigue. His garments were in shreds; his hat was gone. His weary legs tottered under him as he dragged one sore foot after the other. He was a pitiable sight.

Yet in the heart of Mr. Ferguson indignation was stronger than compassion. He rode up alongside the spent and wavering pedestrian.

"Well, by heck, you are certainly the most unreliable nigger in this state!" he said. "Here night before last I make a contract with you for a certain job. I leave you in one of my houses. I come there the next morning and not only are you gone without leaving any word, but one side of my house is busted out. And then I have to leave my business to come hunting for you. And after hunting all over the country I find you here, thirty miles from home, in a swamp. Where in thunder have you been since I last saw you, forty-eight hours ago?"

"Boss," said George, "I've been comin' back."

Going and Coming

Two scholars, a Frenchman and an Italian, were having an argument. Each insisted his own country had produced the most distinguished literary figure that had ever lived.

"Dante," said the Italian, "was the greatest of all writers. Dante went to hell."

"Bah!" cried the Frenchman. "Baudelaire was a thousand times greater than Dante. Baudelaire came from hell."

THE radio industry offers another example of America's leadership in commercial enterprise. Most of the truly scientific developments in radio came from the Old World. It was in America, however, that broadcasting and broadcast reception was developed. American influence has dominated this field so strongly that Great Britain and other countries found it necessary to place restrictions on the importation of radio equipment to protect their own manufacturers. Announcement has just been made of the removal of these restrictions. Open competition between British factories and American factories would have resulted in the foreign plants having to close.

FOREIGN broadcasting is organized on a very different basis than in the United States. In many of the foreign countries, the listeners have to pay a fee to hear the concerts, although there are "boot-leg" or non-payers who take advantage of the officials' inability to control the situation. Contributions to the upkeep of broadcasting comes through the system of taxation. Listeners in this country are fortunate in not having to pay directly for their radio entertainment. The entertainment offered in the United States is superior in every way to what is paid for in foreign lands.

FIVE million dollars worth of American-made radio equipment was sent to foreign countries in 1924. Many radio manufacturers in this country have established their own foreign outlets through export departments and indications point to a tremendous volume of business for this year.

"BEAUTIFUL, yes, but will it work?" Many questions, like this one, greeted the Heatrola in 1921. It was so different in appearance and operation from anything known before.

But Heatrola "worked!" From the day of the first installation, its success was assured. For Heatrola, handsome as a fine mahogany cabinet, and as easy to keep clean, does the work of a basement furnace! It keeps every room in the house, upstairs and down, cozy and snug in coldest weather. And requires no more fuel than any stove requires.

Tens of thousands of homes enjoyed Heatrola's furnace comfort last Winter—many thousands more will own Heatrolas before snow flies. Right here in this community, the homes of many of your neighbors are kept warm by this modern heating method. Let us show you these Heatrolas, and tell you how easily you can own one, too. AMUSEMENTS

"Confessions of a Queen," Victor Seastrom's film version of the novel by Alphonse Daudet, "Kings in Exile" is coming to the Met theater Wednesday. This is Seastrom's latest picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and coming on the heels of his extraordinary success with "He Who Gets Slapped" assumes unusual interest for all picturegoers.

"Confessions of a Queen" marks the revival of the acting team of Alice Terry and Lewis Stone, who appeared together in such productions as "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Scaramouche." They, of course, play the roles of the King and Queen. John Bowers, also a leading man of importance; Helena d'Algy, who made her film debut with Rudolph Valentino in "The Sainted Devil;" Frankie Darro, the boy actor; Eugene Bessner, Joseph Dowling and many others make up a large cast.

Added interest to the production are the elaborate sets and costumes that go with the background of this old world monarchy. The film adaptation was made by Agnes Christine was Percy Hilburn. The settings were designed by Cedric Gibbons and James Basevi and the costumes by Ethel P. Chaffin.

A System of Farming That Brings Health and Prosperity

Every farm, regardless of the method of farming practiced or of the crops raised, should have at least a few good milch cows to provide

- (1) Enough milk, cream and butter for home use;
- (2) Enough skim-milk to raise some calves, pigs and chickens;
- (3) Enough cream or butter to sell to pay, in part or entirely, current living expenses.

This plan has been a "life-saver" for thousands of farmers, especially during the hard times of the past two years. It insures a living, at least, and often other income besides.

Such a plan pays best with a De Laval Cream Separator. It soon pays for itself—and skims cleaner, lasts longer and is easier to operate and clean than any other.

FACTS OF HISTORY GET ODDLY MIXED

People Seem to Want Them Made to Order.

It is a curious thing that the people will have history as they want to have it regardless of what really happened. This singular retrospective power of mere notions or impressions over actual events extends even to the lives and deaths of persons. A case in point is the assumption, found in virtually all the papers, in connection with the sad death of the President's son, that during the incumbency of the Presidency Lincoln lost his boy, whose nickname was "Tad," says the Boston Transcript.

This is not at all the case. "Tad" was the familiar name of the President's son, Thomas, who died, at the age of eighteen, some years after his father's death and, of course, after the family had left Washington. The President's son who died during his term of office was Willie (William Wallace), whose death, at the age of twelve, in February, 1862, brought a pang of sorrow to the nation. Nor is it true, as one paper asserts in order to explain this confusion, that it was Willie Lincoln who was properly called by the nickname "Tad." This was the familiar name of the boy Thomas always.

Not infrequently after his brother Willie's death "Tad" Lincoln accompanied his father in his appearances in public places. He was a familiar figure, but his death, after the family's removal, did not attract the poignant attention that Willie's death did, coming, as that previous blow did, during the severest stress and strain of the early period of the Civil war.

All this is made clear in the biographies of Lincoln, and it is a part of the recollection of many of those now living whose memory covers the days of the Civil war, but the notion that "Lincoln's Tad" died during his father's term of office is so firmly fixed that some even of those who were alive in the early '60s entertain it.

If there is a remedy or a correction for this particular error perhaps it lies in teaching the true names of Lincoln's sons, and the reasons for them, so that they will get these boys differentiated.

Lincoln's eldest son, Robert Todd, now living and distinguished (people sometimes forget that, too), was named after his mother's father, Robert S. Todd, an influential Kentuckian. The second, Edward Baker, who died in infancy, was named for a friend. The next, William Wallace, was named after Gen. William Wallace, a friend of Lincoln's in Illinois. Thomas ("Tad"), the youngest, bore the name of Lincoln's father.

BELIEF IN WITCHES BY NO MEANS GONE

Still Strong in Parts of Rural England.

In remote corners of England to which the railroad does not run, and where visitors are few, the belief in witchcraft still lingers, in spite of parson and schoolmaster, says a writer in a London paper, who continues:

Walking down what is called a "green lane" only a few days ago I passed a little Elizabethan cottage, thatched and weather-boarded, and saw over the front door a hazel wand. Curiosity led me past the corner of the field on which the cottage stands, and there, sure enough, on the back door was another hazel wand.

On the plea of wishing to buy some of the gooseberries that were growing on the bushes, I entered into conversation with the old man who owns the cottage, and asked him frankly who was troubling him. I pointed to the hazel wand over the back door as though I took its efficacy for granted, and he told me that he had had some trouble with the local "Wise Woman." One of his pigs had sickened as a result, and to save himself from further trouble he had put up the wands, because no wise woman can pass beyond them.

In another village I know well a woman who earned a good bit of money by the sale of herb medicines, sent her daughter to service in Wales, and this daughter came back with one of the old-fashioned hats of the country that women used to wear. By the aid of the hat and a red cloak, her mother thrives, for she has sharp features, and the costume strikes terror, or at least respect, into the hearts of the country folk.

A point to be remembered is that many of the "wise women" have a quite valuable knowledge of the virtues of certain herbs. I know of one who has repeatedly cured the worst symptoms of whooping cough by giving mothers of afflicted children a thin slice of garlic to wear between their foot and their sole. A great Harley street specialist told me only a few years ago that this cure has an undoubted efficacy.

Some of the village folk will not trust their children to the "wise women," but they are not so particular about their animals, and it is a fact that many simple disorders of cows, calves, pigs and dogs are cured by these unauthorized practitioners.

A country clergyman of long experience told the writer the other day that the belief in witchcraft is not to be eradicated, and that as long as plausible people advanced claims, these claims would be recognized.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

Mrs. A. A. Parrett was hostess to the members of the American Legion Auxiliary, at their regular meeting last evening at her home in East Main street. A goodly number were in attendance and a very enthusiastic meeting was the result. Arrangements for the card party to be held at the home of Mrs. Parrett on Thursday, November 5th, afternoon and evening, were completed and each member assigned their duties for the occasion. This affair is to be the first of a series of card parties which the auxiliary will give to raise funds necessary for filling their quotas to be sent monthly to the different government hospitals in the Central district.

This organization works with the Red Cross Society and are awaiting the arrival of the yarn to begin knitting on the sweaters that have been requested from this territory. A report to be read at the District conference in London today by the delegate from the chapter was read and discussed. Mrs. Parrett was chosen as the delegate at the last meeting and she attended the meeting today. It is planned to make these meetings as interesting as possible in the hopes that more of the members will be able to attend, and if the last few are an example this success is assured.

Mrs. Parrett was accompanied to London today by Mrs. E. E. Prose and Mrs. Chas. Smith.

PETERFISH-HAFEY.

Miss Emma Hafey, daughter of Mrs. Isabelle Hafey, of Ashville, Ohio, and Mr. S. R. Peterfish, of Columbus, Ohio, were quietly married at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, Oct. 26th, by Rev. D. S. Mills at the home of Mrs. Isabelle Hafey.

Following the ceremony a six o'clock dinner was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Peterfish, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Locher, of Columbus; Mrs. Nannie Shook and Mrs. Bryan Pearce and son Bobbie, of Circleville; Miss Ruth and Master Bliss Hafey, of Ashville.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Peterfish will make their home at 64 South Grant Avenue, Columbus.

LOANS up to $500

The character of any man is put to a severe test when he bogs down in the mire financially. Facing such adversity, some men become criminals, others too willingly turn to charity for relief. But men of real character accept whatever situation confronts them, determined to overcome it in an honorable self-respecting way.

To lots of such men and women the City Loan has proven an oasis on the desert. With its popular loan service as a bulwark, they have been able to regain their reputation and reestablish their credit. As a character builder, City Loan service has no peer.

Heat with Distinction

At last it is proved that a home heater can be good looking—ornamental, if you will—as well as a practical heat-producing utility.

The Mueller Furnacette marks the greatest advance in home heating equipment since the invention of the heating stove. It is the joint creation of master furniture designers and skilled heating engineers. There is distinction in every line of its well-balanced, walnut-grained, vitreous enamel cabinet.

And as for heat—never was there an above-floor heater of any kind that could compare with the Furnacette in heating efficiency! It heats the whole house by continuously re-circulating warm, moist air thru all the rooms. It provides more comfortable, more uniform heat than two or three stoves combined, yet uses no more fuel than an ordinary heating stove.

Sold on convenient monthly payments.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

The Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors gave a box social at the lodge rooms in the Pythian Castle
Tuesday evening. A splendid program of recitations and music was given and a delightful time was had.
About fifty persons were present.
The boxes were sold by C. G. Chalfin,
auctioneer.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kocher celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their country home, one and one half miles northeast of Stoutsville, Sunday, October 25, and the following guests were present to help celebrate the day: Mr. and Mrs.
Calvin Kocher and son, William, and daughter, Evelyn, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Coldren and son, Paul, and daughters,
Pauline and Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs.
Leo Coldren, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mur-

Kenneth and Charles, and daughters, Mildred and Madeline, Mrs. Eva Williams and daughters; Jennie, Clara and Bernice, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henton and Mr. Hurley Chase, all of Columbus; Mrs. Virginia Kocher and son Ross, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Koch-
er and son, James, and daughter, Virginia, of Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs.
George Spangler and son, Boyd, and daughter, Effie, of Cedar Hill; Mr.
and Mrs. Ervin Kocher and sons, Clarence, Harry, Ray and Gerald and daughters, Helen and Doris, Miss Isadell Kocher, Mr. and Mrs. Charles
Kocher and daughters; Mildred, Mabel
and Lucile, of Stoutsville.

A sumptuous dinner was served and
many useful presents were given Mr.
and Mrs. Kocher. The day was spent in social chat and music. At a late hour the guests left for their homes.

New Idea in Night Clubs

In the large cities where they have
"night clubs," which are in reality
only exclusive or semi-exclusive cafes
for dancing and entertainment, a tiny baby grand piano has been placed on rollers and the player rolls it around
the floor, playing particular pieces of music for the guests as they may request. The piano is small enough to be rolled in between the tables and its tones are eminently satisfactory,
it is said.

RED CROSS FINANCES SHOW WIDE SERVICES

Past Year Cost $10,321,679.80;
Duty to Ex-Service Men
Paramount.

Washington.—The national and international services of the American Red Cross are portrayed graphically
in a statement of the Red Cross
finances for the past fiscal year ended
June 30, 1925. Expenditures by the Red Cross (including both the National Organization and the Chapters)
during this period aggregated $10, 321,679.80.

The obligation of the American Red Cross to the ex-service and service men is represented in this sum by a total expenditure of $4,225,292.61. In the interests of disabled veterans, the Red Cross expended $3,577,916.42, of which $1,677,916.42 came from the National Organization, and $1,900,000
from the more than 3,000 Chapters
and local branches of the society.

Red Cross services to the men of the Regular Army and Navy the past year
called for $647,376.19, of which the National Organization furnished $310,
376.19, and the Chapters, $337,000.

Sharing in importance with this responsibility was the Red Cross work
of disaster relief during the year. In these operations there was absorbed a total of $1,922,782.99 up to June 30,
this year. This represented $1,622,
782.99 of National Organization funds
and $300,000 from the Chapters. Relief in foreign disasters amounted to $285,579.35. This sum was appropriated altogether by the National Organization.

Insular and foreign operations of the American Red Cross during the year
included relief in foreign disasters,
the League of Red Cross Societies,
Junior Red Cross Foreign Projects,
assistance to insular Chapters and similar functions. Besides its disaster relief, the National Organization financed these other branches of foreign work also, including $110,238.72
for assistance to insular chapters,
$177,450 for the League of Red Cross
Societies, $84,384.43 for Junior projects abroad, and $80,057.62 for other insular and foreign operations.

In addition to its paramount duty to assist veterans and other service men
and their families, and its disaster relief, the Red Cross expended at home through its national and chapter
funds, a total of $1,029,616.05 for its
Public Health Nursing Service; $154,
135.09 for nutrition instruction; $314,
422.76 for First Aid and Life Saving;
$445,707.34 for Junior Red Cross;
$132,759.88 for instruction in Home
Hygiene and Care of the Sick; and carried on similarly important home duties. Included in the latter were such valuable services as the Enrolled Nurses' Reserve, for which the National Organization expended $45, 562.64; while other national operations at home amounted to $302,957.64.
The chapters, in addition to the large part they played in all Red Cross
activity, spent $678,000 of their own
funds on general chapter services.

The broad humanity of the American Red Cross can never be measured by the money it costs, but even in bare terms of dollars and cents, the scope of its work is indicated. A study of these facts also shows the necessity for the largest possible enrollment, since Red Cross service is maintained almost entirely by its membership. The annual invitation to participate in this work through membership in the American Red Cross, is extended from Armistice Day, November 11, to Thanksgiving,
November 26.

Red Cross First Aid Popular in America As Accidents Gain

The rapidly mounting toll from traffic accidents has brought home to the public the necessity of being prepared to render prompt assistance
while awaiting the doctor. During the past year 356 chapters of the American Red Cross were instructing
classes in First Aid, and in the same period certificates were issued to 26,601 persons qualified by Red Cross
experts.

Many cities throughout the United States are showing interest in securing first aid instruction for their police and fire department personnel,
and through the work of local chapters, practical results have been obtained in such cities as Washington,
D. C.; Toledo, O.; Boston, Mass.;
South Bend and Indianapolis, Ind.;
Port Arthur, Texas, and other communities. In co-operation with the State authorities, intensive training in first aid and rescue methods has been given to State police and constabulary members at four State training
schools.

Instruction in these subjects in public and private schools, colleges and universities has increased during the year. Attention has been given to training teachers at institutes and
summer schools.

The Red Cross first aid railroad car
has been in continuous operation
throughout the year. It covered 10,340 miles, visiting 137 cities, where 1,200 meetings were conducted by the surgeons, with a total of 146,827
people.

Industries particularly have availed themselves of the instruction afforded by the Red Cross. The Western Electric Company, for example, reports a reduction of the accident rate per 1,000 employees.

The Extravagance of Cheapness!

If one has money to waste on clothing, it may be all right to buy some of the so called "cheap"
goods that are so freely advertised.

But comparatively few people
can afford this form of extravagance. The man who is careful
of his expenditures is not wasting money on poorly made ill-fitting clothes whose only attraction is a low first cost.

However, the shrewd and discerning buyers have contributed to our steady growth. The sea-

FRENCH CABINET GOES ON THE ROCKS

THE POLICY OF CAILLAUX TOO MUCH WEIGHT FOR BODY

The French Ministers Program and His Resistance To a Capital Levy Are Prime Reasons—Facing Great Crisis—Government Lacks Reliable Majority—May Ask Painleve To Pick a New Ministry.

M. Painleve's ministry, which was constituted April 16 last, and took up the administration of France's complicated affairs to succeed the Herriot cabinet, ended its career Tuesday, when the premier submitted his resignation and that of his cabinet to President Doumergue.

The fall of the ministry was due to M. Caillaux's financial policy, his resistance to a capital levy, to which M. Painleve rallied after the radical convention at Nice had adopted a resolution favoring it. One of the most difficult political crises in its history now faces the French republic.

President Doumergue has the task of picking a man to form a new government without a reliable majority to support him.

The president will see M. Cazalas, president of the radical group, after which it is expected he will summon the man chosen to form the new government. The general impression Tuesday night is that it will be M. Painleve.

The premier, in the new combination, will likely have the collaboration or active support of M. Herriot and M. Briand probably will be asked to remain as minister of foreign affairs.

The meetings held by the different political groups of the chamber Tuesday afternoon developed a wide divergence of views as to the solution of the crisis and showing that the new cabinet, however constituted, will have to maneuver delicately to find a majority.

Divers opinions were expressed in Washington as to the probable effect of the fall of the French cabinet on negotiations for funding the French war debt.

At the White House officials said that President Coolidge saw little indication that the discussions would be retarded. He is under the impression that the cabinet crisis in Paris arose from domestic issues and that the effect on such foreign policies as debt funding will be remote.

In other administration quarters familiar with the debt question, however, it was predicted that conversations on that subject would encounter a temporary delay at least.

It is suggested that before taking up the threads of the debt negotiations the new cabinet probably would take time to entrench itself on domestic questions.

ATTENDED WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Carle and Mrs. J. F. English attended the Dodds-Thomas wedding which occurred at St. Mary's Catholic church, Lancaster, Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. The groom is a nephew of Mrs. English.

GOOD RECORDS OF MUHLENBURG TOWNSHIP BOYS

The Boys' Pig club of Muhlenburg made a fine showing at the Pumpkin Show.

Eleven of the fourteen boys who started the work finished. The boys should be congratulated. They won one second and one fifth prize which includes a free trip to Pittsburgh. The scoring of the boys in the Breeding class was as follows:

John Fullen, 95.7 per cent; Harry Carpenter, 92.9; Arthur Beatty, 89.5; Emerson Beatty, 85.6; Johnnie Brigner, 83.9.

In the market class the scores were: Scott Carpenter Jr., 87.5 per cent; John Pherson, 85.9; Wayne Stewart, 84.6; William Pherson, 81.2; Herman Clifton, 77.8; Harold Clifton, 69.

The boys had for their leader, Pearl E. Smith and owe their success to him for the interest he had in the club during the summer in helping them get ready for the show at the close of the season.

EMBARGO PUT ON FREIGHT FOR FLORIDA

Shortage of Labor and Inability to Unload Cars is Given as Cause.

Florida railroads, crippled by the mountain of freight that followed in the wake of the land boom Tuesday declared an embargo on virtually all imperishable goods.

With the exception of foodstuffs and livestock, the Seaboard Airline company, has raised the bars against carload lots of all classes shipped to Florida destinations.

The Atlantic Coast Line railroad is refusing freight for the west coast. Both lines, with the Southern railway following their example, have banned all shipments for points on the connecting Florida East Coast railway, allowing passage only to petroleum and its products.

Shortage of labor and the inability of consignees to unload the ever increasing strings of cars are cited by the railroads as the reasons for the ban.

Job seekers who rushed to Florida with the beginning of the boom have been carried away by the prospects of easy profits, it was said and laborers are at premium in the crush of real estate speculators.

The embargo set up temporarily by the Seaboard Air Line includes carload freight of all classes bound for Florida on its lines with the exception of foodstuffs and livestock.

The Atlantic Coast line is similarly refusing shipments for west coast cities, including Sarasota, St. Petersburg, Palmetto, Bradentown and Clearwater.

Both of the above roads and the Southern railway are refusing carload lots and less than carload freight to the east coast of Florida, where the ban is more complete than on the west coast.

The congestion first became marked early in September and has since spread to nearly all of the principal points of Florida.

PUMPKIN SHOW AMUSEMENTS.

The receipts of the riding devices during the Pumpkin Show made by the amusement director, T. D. Krinn, are as follows: Ehrling, $888.19; Merry Mix-up, $95; shows $186.52; 21,465 people paid admissions to the shows and rides.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires By Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Youngstown, — The Northwestern conference of the Ohio State Federation of Women's clubs opened today and will continue until Thursday.

Mrs. Margaret Allman, of Canton, district president, called the convocation to order. State President Mrs. Charles R. Fox, of Cincinnati, presided.

Toledo, — Rev. Grant W. Speer, pastor of the Central Christian church here, today, sued The Cleveland News for $100,000, charging "malicious libel."

Akron, — The resignation of County Commissioner Fred F. Smith, whom fellow commissioners charged with intoxication, was in the hands of the county authorities today.

Warren, — Frank Nigra, of Warren, was held in jail today pending sentence on charges of manslaughter in connection with the death of his son, Tony, who was shot and killed last spring.

Nigra was found guilty late Monday night. He is subject to a maximum sentence of twenty years.

Columbus, — Funeral arrangements were announced Tuesday for the Rev. Postle E. White, 50, Newark, superintendent of the Zanesville district of the Ohio conference of the Methodist church, who died late Monday. Rev. Dr. White died from poisoning which developed from an infected tooth.

Columbus, — The partisan tempest that developed over the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted in referendum a week from today subsided temporarily while proponents and opponents of the measure held party conferences.

Akron, — The present shortage of raw rubber will continue until 1931, Dr. N. H. Whitford, crude rubber expert, declared in a special report to the Rubber association of America, made public Tuesday.

JUSTICE'S COURT.

Justice Strawser got busy during the Pumpkin Show and appointed a special constable, a Mr. Dixon and the latter found two men, John Johnson and Charles Young, drunk, both claiming Columbus as their home. The justice fined them $100 apiece and in default they were sent to jail to board out the fine and costs.

LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Frank Cox Died at Her Home at Laurelville of Cancer of the Heart.

Mrs. Maysie Cox, wife of Frank Cox, passed away at her home in Laurelville at 9:30 o'clock Monday, October 26. She had been a sufferer for more than year of cancer of the breast.

She was aged about 45 years and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin White, of Hocking county.

She leaves a devoted husband and two children, a son and a daughter. Up until the time of her marriage, she was a teacher in the public schools and had the reputation of being one of the best teachers in Hocking county.

REINDEER HER MEAT

Unga Lou, Eskimo girl whose home is in the suburbs of Nome, Alaska, while traveling east to enter college was much surprised, on entering the railway dining car, to find herself served with reindeer meat, her favorite food. WILLIAM FAUSNAUGH DEAD

William Fausnaugh, a resident of Five Points, died at his home last Monday evening aged 70 years. His death was due to pneumonia.

The deceased is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter. They are George Fausnaugh, at home; Trumper Fausnaugh, of Columbus, and Mrs. Clarence Turflinger, of Five Points.

The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon. Interment at Five Points.

E. H. Rausenberger went to Greenfield Tuesday where he will be a guest of the Highland Beagle club.

MONDAY CLUB MUSIC NIGHT DELIGHTFUL

General Subject Was "Opera" and Tannhauser Was the Special Study!

The first session for the year of the music division of the Monday club was held Monday night, and that the members are especially fond of the musical evenings was demonstrated by the large number in attendance and also by the evident pleasure with which the program was received. Mrs. C. G. Stewart, chairman of the music division, was in the charge of the meeting.

The general subject was Opera, Tannhauser, being the special subject of the evening's lesson. Miss Florence opened the study with a well written paper in which she depicted the life of the composer, Wagner, giving a most vivid picture of his early privations and struggles and his ultimate success—a success so complete as to cause him to be known as the "one true musical genius of his age."

Miss Florence also pleasingly sketched the story of Wagner's great opera, Tannhauser, after which Mrs. Stewart played a few bars from the various motifs of the composition, including the "Venusburg Motif," the "Song of Love" and the "Siren's Song." At the conclusion of each motif Miss Florence explained its uniform significance and its connection with the entire opera.

Miss Clarke then played the "Pilgrim's Chorus," her faultless rendition bringing out fully the almost weird beauty of the selection.

Next, the "Fest March" which occurs in the third act, was played by Mrs. Wilder and Mrs. Stewart. Listening to their spirited playing one well could imagine the assembling of the nobles and ladies which the music represented.

An aria, "Elizabeth's Prayer" was then sung in German by Mrs. Bennett, accompanied by Miss Clarke. The club is to be congratulated that it has in its membership one who is able by her singing to carry her hearers' minds instinctively to Madame Schumann-Heinke.

The next number on the program was to have been a violin selection, "Oh, Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star" played by Miss Groce. Miss Groce not being present Mrs. Bennett sang a portion of the ode, also in the original.

The closing number of the program the "Ode to the Virgin" was sung by a chorus under the leadership of Mrs. Will. The chorus was composed of Mrs. Will, Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. Eagleston, Mrs. May, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Schwarz, Mrs. Moffitt, Mrs. Johnson and Misses Florence, Clark, Marion, Olds, Rowe, Grimes and Reynolds. To all who are familiar with the singing ability of these ladies it goes without saying that the rendering of this beautiful music won added laurels for each participant. This chorus brought to a close a very delightful musical evening.

PICKAWAY TOWNSHIP P. T. A.

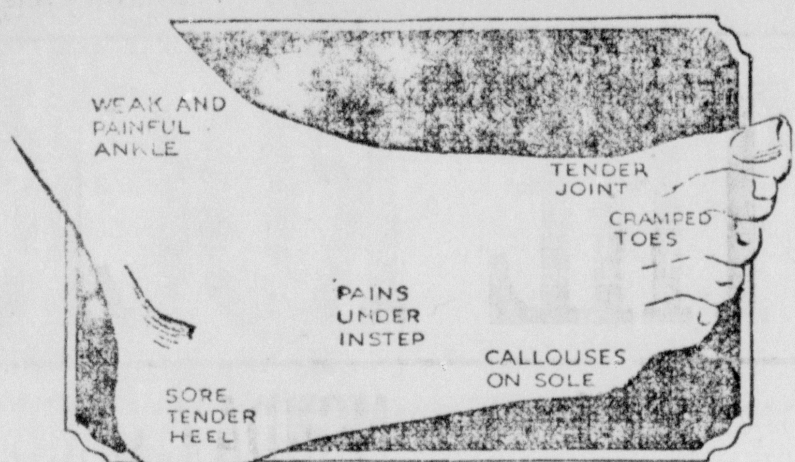

The second meeting of the school year of the Parent Teacher association of the Pickaway township school will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the school auditorium.

There will be a good program with Miss Nettie Rader as chairman. Mrs. Marvin Dresbach will lead in the devotionals and Mrs. Ray Phillips will have charge of the music.

Mr. Cecil Acton representing the "Wabash Lyceum Bureau" will meet with the association at this time. The friends and patrons of the school are urged to be present.

Do you want to know how to stop corns hurting instantly? Come in and get a sample of Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads. They remove the cause of corns—friction and pressure. Thin, antiseptic, healing.

Bring your foot troubles to this store during this demonstration and learn the true meaning of foot comfort.

REV. DR. WHITE DIES UNEXPECTEDLY HERE

Columbus, Oct. 27.—An infected tooth which spread its poison throughout his system caused the death of Rev. Postle E. White of Newark yesterday noon in White Cross Hospital, where he had gone Sunday night for X-ray examination and treatment. Rev. Dr. White was district superintendent of the Zanesville district of the Ohio Conference of the M. E. church.

The examination disclosed so serious a condition that an operation was considered necessary, but death came while preparations were being made to operate.

The widow, Emma Brown-White; a daughter, Dorothy E., a junior at Ohio Wesleyan, and a son, Charles E., aged 5; two nephews, Rev. W. P. Castro of Wayne Ave. M. E. Church, Cincinnati, and Floyd Castro of Birmingham, Ala., survive.

Rev. Dr. White was born June 28, 1875, at Syracuse, O., and Nov. 18, 1899, was married. There were four children, two of whom, Lucille and Florence, are dead.

Funeral services will be held in Glenwood M. E. Church. Burial will be in Green Lawn cemetery.

Details of funeral arrangements have not been made, pending word from Bishop Theodore S. Henderson.

WOMAN'S DAY

Fittingly Celebrated Sunday at United Brethren Church.

The Woman's Missionary Society, the Otterbein Guild and the Junior C. E. of the United Brethren church observed Woman's Day Sunday morning with a special program. It consisted, in part, of an exercise, "The Last Command," by several members of the Junior C. E., the 96th Psalm by May Willis, also an able address, "Establishment and Expansion," by the pastor, Rev. S. W. Hiles. The offering this year is to be divided between two stations, Ponce, Porto Rico, and Circle, Montana. The needs of these stations were presented by Mrs. J. E. Millirons and Mrs. J. W. Trimmer.

An appeal to stop the leak in the missionary work that has been brought about through so many women failing to renew their subscriptions to the Woman's Evangel was made by Mrs. J. R. Kirkpatrick. The offering will not be sent in to the branch treasurer for at least two weeks, thus giving time for all who wish to contribute to this worthy cause to do so.

$16,493,966 GO TO VETS UNDER REED-JOHNSON BILL

Report by Rehabilitation Committee of Legion Tells of Work of Year.

Indianapolis.—Almost 40,000 disabled World war veterans and families of veterans received more than $16,000,000 under the Reed-Johnson rehabilitation bill and its amendments during the last year.

The total amount awarded under the measure was $16,493,966, or an average benefit of $418 per case, according to James F. Barton, national adjutant, the American Legion.

Results of this legislation, passed in 1924 and 1925, with Legion support, are set forth in a report made by Watson B. Miller, chairman of the Legion's national rehabilitation committee. The report will be submitted to the national convention of the Legion at Omaha from October 5 to 9.

Full benefits of the Reed-Johnson bill have not been felt in the year since its passage. Mr. Johnson declares. A review of all old cases disallowed under previous laws was taken up at the Legion's suggestion, but this is only about half finished.

There were between 400,000 and 500,000 of these cases. The review is progressing at the rate of 700 cases a day.

Experience has shown, Mr. Miller's report says, that the veteran or his dependents benefit in about 15 per cent of these cases by some phase of the new legislation.

More than 10,000 shell-shocked veterans have benefited in the first year of the law's operation to the extent of $4,620,501 under the extension of the period for presumptive service connection on mental diseases. Under a similar extension for tubercular veterans, 10,281 of them have received $8,493,489. Increased dependency pay for death or disability totaled for the year $938,638.

Increases in pay from $100 to $150 a month have been granted to 336 blind veterans. Some 937 helpless veterans were paid during the year $562,200 in allowances for attendants. Eighty-nine totally deaf veterans received compensation increases from $65 to $100 a month.

KEEPING WELL

LETTING SUNSHINE INTO THE THROAT
DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

IT HAS long been known that the tuberculosis germ could not live in sunlight. That's why certain localities where sunny days were frequent got the reputation of curing tuberculosis. Then it was found that sunlight, even in mid-winter, would cure skin tuberculosis. Later Doctor Rouiller, in Switzerland, noticed that children with tubercular joints whose beds in his hospital were where the sun shone on them, got well quicker than children whose beds were in the shade. So he moved them all out on a glass-enclosed porch, where the sun shone on them all day long, and then they got well. Not only that, but those who had tuberculosis of the lungs, also got better. So he began keeping all his tubercular patients outdoors, regardless of the temperature. He took off all their clothes, except caps, overshoes and girdles, and exposed the whole body to the sun. His patients improved and many completely recovered, with no treatment except sunlight.

But how about tuberculosis of the throat, or as doctors call it "laryngeal tuberculosis." This is not only a common form of tuberculosis but also one of the most difficult for the physician to treat. It was for many years considered absolutely incurable.

About twenty years ago, it occurred to Dr. Josef Sargo, head of a tuberculosis sanitarium at Davos, that if sunlight could be reflected into the throat, it might have a beneficial effect. His assistant, Doctor Kunwald, tried it on fourteen patients with good results. Their apparatus was very crude.

Other doctors tried this method and improved the apparatus. Then a tubercular patient in Colorado Springs, Colo., developed tuberculosis of the larynx. After many experiments, working with his physician, he made two important improvements. First, he used concave mirrors instead of flat ones, by which the sunlight is concentrated; and second, he used metal mirrors instead of glass. The metal mirrors are made of a metallic alloy which does not reflect the heat rays of the sun, but only the ultra-violet or actinic rays, as they are called. So the throat is exposed to sunlight without heat, which might injure the larynx.

The patient treats himself, by throwing the sunlight into the throat every sunny day. After a few treatments the pain disappears, the ulcers begin to heal up and the disease slowly but surely disappears. About a year is necessary in most cases for a complete cure.

No wonder the old Persians worshipped the sun. We are just beginning to realize the power and value of sunshine.

Question: How Far Did George Go?

The white man—the story runs—was named Ferguson. He owned a string of two-room frame cottages and his tenants exclusively were colored. Very great was his chagrin when a negro man in a fit of pique cut a woman's throat in one of his houses so that she bled to death, leaving a large dark stain on the floor, because immediately the word spread among the black population that the building was haunted and thereafter nobody would rent it, even at reduced rates. For months the cottage stood empty. Then the owner had a bright idea. He went one evening and hunted up a large dark individual named George Titus, upon whom by way of beginning, he conferred a drink out of a bottle of corn spirits.

"George," said he, "these darkies tell me you know quite a lot about haints and ghosts and such things?"

"Well, sah, Mist' Ferguson," replied George modestly, "I does know a right smart 'bout sich."

"That's good," said the wily white man. "I'm rather an authority myself on such matters. Now, then, speaking as one expert to another, I want to tell you that gun-barrel shack of mine out here on Clay street, where that woman was killed, is not haunted. She died in a state of grace and her spirit rests in peace."

"But the trouble is that these colored people around this town don't know it and they've given the place a bad name. What I want to do is to prove to them that it's not hainted. And here's the way we're going to do it—you and me. I'm going to hire you to spend tonight in the room where the killing took place. Then, when you come out tomorrow morning and tell your people that nothing happened there during the night, I'll be able to rent the house again. I'm going to give you the rest of this bottle of liquor now and a fresh bottle besides. And tomorrow morning I'll hand you a ten-dollar bill. How about it?"

That slug of corn whiskey already was working. It made George valiant. Besides a white man had appealed to him for professional aid. He consented—after another lusty pull at the flask.

The crafty Ferguson took no chances. Straightway he escorted his newly enlisted aid to the house of tragedy, provided him with a pallet on the floor and left him there in the gathering darkness. But before departing he took the precaution of barring the two windows from the outside and securely locking the front and rear doors.

Next morning bright and early he came to release his brother expert. The windows still were shuttered, the doors still fastened tight; but the house was empty. Also it was in a damaged state. At one side the thin clapboards were burst through, as though a blunt projectile traveling at great speed had struck them with terrific force from within. The shattered ends of planking stood forth encircling the jagged aperture in a sort of sunburst effect.

Upon the splintered tip of one of the boards was a wisp of kinky wool. Upon a paling of the yard fence was a rag, evidently ripped from a shirt sleeve. Otherwise there were no signs of George Titus. He was utterly gone, with only that yawning orifice in the cottage wall to give a clue as to the manner of his departure.

Mr. Ferguson waited all through the summer day for the missing one to turn up. George failed to return. On the second day the white man gave the alarm. A search party was organized—men on horseback with dogs. Bloodhounds took the trail. They followed it from early morning until late that evening.

Just before dusk, in a swamp thirty miles away the lead-dog bayed exultantly. The pursuing posse, with Ferguson in the lead, spurred forward.

Here came the missing George. His face was set toward home. It was a face streaked with dust and dried sweat, torn by briars, wet, drawn, gray with fatigue. His garments were in shreds; his hat was gone. His weary legs tottered under him as he dragged one sore foot after the other. He was a pitiable sight.

Yet in the heart of Mr. Ferguson indignation was stronger than compassion. He rode up alongside the spent and wavering pedestrian.

"Well, by heck, you are certainly the most unreliable nigger in this state!" he said. "Here night before last I make a contract with you for a certain job. I leave you in one of my houses. I come there the next morning and not only are you gone without leaving any word, but one side of my house is busted out. And then I have to leave my business to come hunting for you. And after hunting all over the country I find you here, thirty miles from home, in a swamp. Where in thunder have you been since I last saw you, forty-eight hours ago?"

"Boss," said George, "I've been comin' back."

Going and Coming

Two scholars, a Frenchman and an Italian, were having an argument. Each insisted his own country had produced the most distinguished literary figure that had ever lived.

"Dante," said the Italian, "was the greatest of all writers. Dante went to hell."

"Bah!" cried the Frenchman. "Baudelaire was a thousand times greater than Dante. Baudelaire came from hell."

.. today, the nation's standard for small home heating

"BEAUTIFUL, yes, but will it work?" Many questions, like this one, greeted the Heatrola in 1921. It was so different in appearance and operation from anything known before.

But Heatrola "worked!" From the day of the first installation, its success was assured. For Heatrola, handsome as a fine mahogany cabinet, and as easy to keep clean, does the work of a basement furnace! It keeps every room in the house, upstairs and down, cozy and snug in coldest weather. And requires no more fuel than any stove requires.

Tens of thousands of homes enjoyed Heatrola's furnace comfort last Winter—many thousands more will own Heatrolas before snow flies. Right here in this community, the homes of many of your neighbors are kept warm by this modern heating method. Let us show you these Heatrolas, and tell you how easily you can own one, too. AMUSEMENTS

"Confessions of a Queen," Victor Seastrom's film version of the novel by Alphonse Daudet, "Kings in Exile" is coming to the Met theater Wednesday. This is Seastrom's latest picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and coming on the heels of his extraordinary success with "He Who Gets Slapped" assumes unusual interest for all picturegoers.

"Confessions of a Queen" marks the revival of the acting team of Alice Terry and Lewis Stone, who appeared together in such productions as "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Scaramouche." They, of course, play the roles of the King and Queen. John Bowers, also a leading man of importance; Helena d'Algy, who made her film debut with Rudolph Valentino in "The Sainted Devil;" Frankie Darro, the boy actor; Eugenie Besserer, Joseph Dowling and many others make up a large cast.

Added interest to the production are the elaborate sets and costumes that go with the background of this old world monarchy. The film adaptation was made by Agnes Christine was Percy Hilburn. The settings were designed by Cedric Gibbons and James Basevi and the costumes by Ethel P. Chaffin.

LOST VALU- ABLE HORSE

Frank Baker, the transferman, lost a valuable horse to an attack of Astoria last night about 10 o'clock. The horse fell in the alley in the rear of Fickardt & Co., drug store shortly after noon.

Many are still wrathful about Shaw's theory that it is the man who flees and the woman who pursues. But incidentally, the eastern man who has just inherited $150,000 has already received a hundred proposals of marriage.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A System of Farming That Brings Health and Prosperity

Every farm, regardless of the method of farming practiced or of the crops raised, should have at least a few good milch cows to provide

- (1) Enough milk, cream and butter for home use;
- (2) Enough skim-milk to raise some calves, pigs and chickens;
- (3) Enough cream or butter to sell to pay, in part or entirely, current living expenses.

This plan has been a "life-saver" for thousands of farmers, especially during the hard times of the past two years. It insures a living, at least, and often other income besides.

Such a plan pays best with a De Laval Cream Separator. It soon pays for itself—and skims cleaner, lasts longer and is easier to operate and clean than any other.

FACTS OF HISTORY GET ODDLY MIXED

People Seem to Want Them Made to Order.

It is a curious thing that the people will have history as they want to have it regardless of what really happened. This singular retrospective power of mere notions or impressions over actual events extends even to the lives and deaths of persons. A case in point is the assumption, found in virtually all the papers, in connection with the sad death of the President's son, that during the incumbency of the President Lincoln lost his boy, whose nickname was "Tad," says the Boston Transcript.

This is not at all the case. "Tad" was the familiar name of the President's son, Thomas, who died, at the age of eighteen, some years after his father's death and, of course, after the family had left Washington. The President's son who died during his term of office was Willie (William Wallace), whose death, at the age of twelve, in February, 1862, brought a pang of sorrow to the nation. Nor is it true, as one paper asserts in order to explain this confusion, that it was Willie Lincoln who was properly called by the nickname "Tad." This was the familiar name of the boy Thomas always.

Not infrequently after his brother Willie's death "Tad" Lincoln accompanied his father in his appearances in public places. He was a familiar figure, but his death, after the family's removal, did not attract the poignant attention that Willie's death did, coming, as that previous blow did, during the severest stress and strain of the early period of the Civil war.

All this is made clear in the biographies of Lincoln, and it is a part of the recollection of many of those now living whose memory covers the days of the Civil war, but the notion that "Lincoln's Tad" died during his father's term of office is so firmly fixed that some even of those who were alive in the early '60s entertain it.

If there is a remedy or a correction for this particular error perhaps it lies in teaching the true names of Lincoln's sons, and the reasons for them, so that they will get these boys differentiated.

Lincoln's eldest son, Robert Todd, now living and distinguished (people sometimes forget that, too), was named after his mother's father, Robert S. Todd, an influential Kentuckian. The second, Edward Baker, who died in infancy, was named for a friend. The next, William Wallace, was named after Gen. William Wallace, a friend of Lincoln's in Illinois. Thomas ("Tad"), the youngest, bore the name of Lincoln's father.

BELIEF IN WITCHES BY NO MEANS GONE

Still Strong in Parts of Rural England.

In remote corners of England to which the railroad does not run, and where visitors are few, the belief in witchcraft still lingers, in spite of parson and schoolmaster, says a writer in a London paper, who continues:

Walking down what is called a "green lane" only a few days ago I passed a little Elizabethan cottage, thatched and weather-boarded, and saw over the front door a hazel wand. Curiosity led me past the corner of the field on which the cottage stands, and there, sure enough, on the back door was another hazel wand.

On the plea of wishing to buy some of the gooseberries that were growing on the bushes, I entered into conversation with the old man who owns the cottage, and asked him frankly who was troubling him. I pointed to the hazel wand over the back door as though I took its efficacy for granted, and he told me that he had had some trouble with the local "Wise Woman." One of his pigs had sickened as a result, and to save himself from further trouble he had put up the wands, because no wise woman can pass beyond them.

In another village I know well a woman who earned a good bit of money by the sale of herb medicines, sent her daughter to service in Wales, and this daughter came back with one of the old-fashioned hats of the country that women used to wear. By the aid of the hat and a red cloak, her mother thrives, for she has sharp features, and the costume strikes terror, or at least respect, into the hearts of the country folk.

A point to be remembered is that many of the "wise women" have a quite valuable knowledge of the virtues of certain herbs. I know of one who has repeatedly cured the worst symptoms of whooping cough by giving mothers of afflicted children a thin slice of garlic to wear between their foot and their sole. A great Harley street specialist told me only a few years ago that this cure has an undoubted efficacy.

Some of the village folk will not trust their children to the "wise women," but they are not so particular about their animals, and it is a fact that many simple disorders of cows, calves, pigs and dogs are cured by these unauthorized practitioners.

A country clergyman of long experience told the writer the other day that the belief in witchcraft is not to be eradicated, and that as long as plausible people advanced claims, these claims would be recognized.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

Mrs. A. A. Parrett was hostess to the members of the American Legion Auxiliary, at their regular meeting last evening at her home in East Main street. A goodly number were in attendance and a very enthusiastic meeting was the result. Arrangements for the card party to be held at the home of Mrs. Parrett on Thursday, November 5th, afternoon and evening, were completed and each member assigned their duties for the occasion. This affair is to be the first of a series of card parties which the auxiliary will give to raise funds necessary for filling their quotas to be sent monthly to the different government hospitals in the Central district.

This organization works with the Red Cross Society and are awaiting the arrival of the yarn to begin knitting on the sweaters that have been requested from this territory. A report to be read at the District conference in London today by the delegate from the chapter was read and discussed. Mrs. Parrett was chosen as the delegate at the last meeting and she attended the meeting today. It is planned to make these meetings as interesting as possible in the hopes that more of the members will be able to attend, and if the last few are an example this success is assured.

Mrs. Parrett was accompanied to London today by Mrs. E. E. Prose and Mrs. Chas. Smith.

Miss Emma Hafefy, daughter of Mrs. Isabelle Hafefy, of Ashville, Ohio, and Mr. S. R. Peterfish, of Columbus, Ohio, were quietly married at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, Oct. 26th, by Rev. D. S. Mills at the home of Mrs. Isabelle Hafefy.

Following the ceremony a six o'clock dinner was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Peterfish, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Locher, of Columbus; Mrs. Nannie Shook and Mrs. Bryan Pearce and son Bobbie, of Circleville; Miss Ruth and Master Bliss Hafefy, of Ashville.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Peterfish will make their home at 64 South Grant Avenue, Columbus.

LOANS up to $500

The character of any man is put to a severe test when he bogs down in the mire financially. Facing such adversity, some men become criminals, others too willingly turn to charity for relief. But men of real character accept whatever situation confronts them, determined to overcome it in an honorable self-respecting way.

To lots of such men and women the City Loan has proven an oasis on the desert. With its popular loan service as a bulwark, they have been able to regain their reputation and reestablish their credit. As a character builder, City Loan service has no peer.

Heat with Distinction

At last it is proved that a home heater can be good looking—ornamental, if you will—as well as a practical heat-producing utility.

The Mueller Furnacette marks the greatest advance in home heating equipment since the invention of the heating stove. It is the joint creation of master furniture designers and skilled heating engineers. There is distinction in every line of its well-balanced, walnut-grained, vitreous enamel cabinet.

And as for heat—never was there an above-floor heater of any kind that could compare with the Furnacette in heating efficiency! It heats the whole house by continuously re-circulating warm, moist air thru all the rooms. It provides more comfortable, more uniform heat than two or three stoves combined, yet uses no more fuel than an ordinary heating stove.

Sold on convenient monthly payments.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

The Modern Woodmen and Royal
Neighbors gave a box social at the lodge rooms in the Pythian Castle
Tuesday evening. A splendid program of recitations and music was
given and a delightful time was had.
About fifty persons were present.
The boxes were sold by C. G. Chalfin,

son Ross, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Koch-
er and son, James, and daughter, Virginia, of Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs.
George Spangler and son, Boyd, and
daughter, Effie, of Cedar Hill; Mr.
and Mrs. Ervin Kocher and sons,
Clarence, Harry, Ray and Gerald and
daughters, Helen and Doris, Miss
Isadell Kocher, Mr. and Mrs. Charles
Kocher and daughters; Mildred, Mabel
and Lucile, of Stoutsville.

A sumptuous dinner was served and
many useful presents were given Mr.
and Mrs. Kocher. The day was spent
in social chat and music. At a late hour the guests left for their homes.

New Idea in Night Clubs

In the large cities where they have
"night clubs," which are in reality
only exclusive or semi-exclusive cafes
for dancing and entertainment, a tiny
baby grand piano has been placed on
rollers and the player rolls it around
the floor, playing particular pieces of
music for the guests as they may request. The piano is small enough to be rolled in between the tables and its tones are eminently satisfactory. It

RED CROSS FINANCES SHOW WIDE SERVICES

Past Year Cost $10,321,679.80;
Duty to Ex-Service Men
Paramount.

Washington.—The national and international services of the American Red Cross are portrayed graphically
in a statement of the Red Cross
finances for the past fiscal year ended
June 30, 1925. Expenditures by the Red Cross (including both the National Organization and the Chapters)
during this period aggregated $10,- 321,679.80.

The obligation of the American Red Cross to the ex-service and service
men is represented in this sum by a total expenditure of $4,225,292.61. In
the interests of disabled veterans, the Red Cross expended $3,577,916.42, of
which $1,677,916.42 came from the National Organization, and $1,900,000
from the more than 3,000 Chapters
and local branches of the society.

Red Cross services to the men of the Regular Army and Navy the past year
called for $647,376.19, of which the National Organization furnished $310,- 376.19, and the Chapters, $337,000.

Sharing in importance with this responsibility was the Red Cross work
of disaster relief during the year. In these operations there was absorbed a total of $1,922,782.90 up to June 30,
this year. This represented $1,622,- 782.90 of National Organization funds
and $300,000 from the Chapters. Relief in foreign disasters amounted to $285,579.35. This sum was appropriated altogether by the National Organization.

Insular and foreign operations of the American Red Cross during the year
included relief in foreign disasters,
the League of Red Cross Societies,
Junior Red Cross Foreign Projects,
assistance to insular Chapters and
similar functions. Besides its disaster
relief, the National Organization
financed these other branches of foreign work also, including $110,238.72
for assistance to insular chapters,
$177,450 for the League of Red Cross
Societies, $84,384.43 for Junior projects abroad, and $80,057.62 for other
insular and foreign operations.

In addition to its paramount duty to assist veterans and other service men
and their families, and its disaster
relief, the Red Cross expended at
home through its national and chapter
funds, a total of $1,029,616.05 for its
Public Health Nursing Service; $154,-
135.09 for nutrition instruction; $314,-
422.76 for First Aid and Life Saving;
$445,707.34 for Junior Red Cross;
$132,759.88 for instruction in Home
Hygiene and Care of the Sick; and
carried on similarly important home
duties. Included in the latter were
such valuable services as the Enrolled
Nurses' Reserve, for which the National Organization expended $45,- 562.64; while other national operations at home amounted to $302,957.64.
The chapters, in addition to the large
part they played in all Red Cross
activity, spent $678,000 of their own
funds on general chapter services.

Red Cross First Aid Popular in America As Accidents Gain

The rapidly mounting toll from
traffic accidents has brought home to the public the necessity of being prepared to render prompt assistance
while awaiting the doctor. During the past year 356 chapters of the American Red Cross were instructing
classes in First Aid, and in the same period certificates were issued to 26,601 persons qualified by Red Cross
experts.

Many cities throughout the United States are showing interest in securing first aid instruction for their police and fire department personnel,
and through the work of local chapters, practical results have been obtained in such cities as Washington,
D. C.; Toledo, O.; Boston, Mass.;
South Bend and Indianapolis, Ind.;
Port Arthur, Texas, and other communities. In co-operation with the State authorities, intensive training in first
aid and rescue methods has been given to State police and constabulary
members at four State training
schools.

Instruction in these subjects in public and private schools, colleges
and universities has increased during the year. Attention has been given to training teachers at institutes and
summer schools.

The Red Cross first aid railroad car
has been in continuous operation
throughout the year. It covered
10,340 miles, visiting 137 cities, where
1,200 meetings were conducted by the surgeons, with a total of 146,827
people.

Industries particularly have availed
themselves of the instruction afforded
by the Red Cross. The Western Electric Company, for example, reports a reduction of the accident rate per 1,000 employees.

The Extravagance of Cheapness!

If one has money to waste on
clothing, it may be all right to
buy some of the so called "cheap"
goods that are so freely advertised.

But comparatively few people
can afford this form of extravagance. The man who is careful
of his expenditures is not wasting money on poorly made ill-fitting clothes whose only attraction is a low first cost.

However, the shrewd and discerning buyers have contributed

Coats That Have That
"Quality Look"

This week we offer the women of Pickaway County an opportunity to save on their new winter coat. For so early these are ex ceptional values because they are made of fine materials, because they are silk lined, because they are lavishly trimmed with fur. See Our Windows.
